BIENNIAL REPORT

ADIRONDACK CENTER for LOON
CONSERVATION

WELCOME FROM CHANDLER RALPH, BOARD CHAIR

When Dr. Nina Schoch, the preeminent loon researcher in the Adirondacks, contacted me two years ago to join the Board of the newly formed Adirondack Center for Loon Conservation, I did not hesitate. How could I possibly say no to a mission that is dedicated to the conservation of the Common Loon in the Adirondacks? The eerie call of the loon has been a steady companion to me throughout my life. From camp at Raquette Lake as a child to hearing the call almost every summer morning on my way to work at Adirondack Health, I could always count on the yodel uplifting my spirits.

It has been two years since our organization became an independent nonprofit entity in April 2017, and much has been accomplished, thanks to the dedication of Dr. Schoch, our staff, and a committed group of volunteer Board members. The mission of education, research, and conservation is a noble one and the enthusiasm of our donors and supporters continues to confirm we are on the right path. We are fortunate as a community to have a dedicated group of folks who love the loon and strive toward the ongoing conservation of this iconic bird so representative of the Adirondack wilderness. We could not have achieved what we have without the strong and dedicated support of our donors and supporters, and we are most grateful.

We are looking forward to the continued growth of the Adirondack Center for Loon Conservation. As someone once said, there is nothing common about the Common Loon.

A WORD FROM DR. NINA SCHOCH, FOUNDER AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The last twenty years have been an incredible experience—it's been fantastic to learn so much about Adirondack loons through our monitoring and banding efforts, as well as to inspire others to become more involved in protecting wildlife and their habitats.

The last two years, especially, have been very fulfilling, as we fledged into an independent nonprofit entity, and have been building on our past accomplishments ever since. From rescuing debilitated loons to talking with the thousands of visitors at the Adirondack Loon Center, our work has led to expanding the conservation of Common Loons in the Adirondacks.

Hearing the wail of these striking birds echo and resonate across Adirondack hillsides as I drift with them on the water remains one of my absolute favorite experiences. I am thrilled to be able to share such times with others and invite them to join us in caring for these beautiful birds and the lakes where they live.

~ EDUCATION AND OUTREACH ~

2017-2018: ~3700 People Reached Through:

- 42 Presentations & Displays
- 2 Field trips
- 4 Conferences

8 Interviews & Articles: Adirondack Life, Adirondack Explorer, Mountain Lake PBS, Lab of Ornithology's Living Bird magazine, Adirondack Almanack, Adirondack Daily Enterprise, and the Post Star

2018 Art Shows at the View Arts Center in Old Forge and the Paul Smith's College VIC: Featuring the stunning work of dozens of award-winning artists and photographers to highlight information about loon ecology and conservation.

Interns: Our 2017 and 2018 interns included students from Colgate University's Colgate University's Upstate Institute Field School, the Paul Smith's Adirondack Watershed Institute, SUNY ESF's Adirondack Ecological Center, and Calvin College. They obtained essential skills and experience in wildlife research, educational programming, exhibit design, or retail management, which will prove valuable in their future careers.

2018 Loon Celebration!

- Sunday, Oct. 7, 2018 at the Paul Smith's College VIC
- "Unveiling the Secret Lives of Nesting Adirondack Loons" presentation
 - "Conservation Through the Lives of Adirondack Loons" Art Show
 - Music by Celia Evans
 - Food by Green Goddess
 - Silent auction, raffle, children's activities
 - Field trip to visit with the pre-migratory loon gathering on Lake Clear

Join us on Sunday, October 13, 2019, for the Annual Loon Celebration!

Awards: Congratulations to Dr. Judith McIntyre, the matriarch of loon natural history, and to Gary Lee, retired Forest Ranger and devoted loon guardian, who received our 2017 and 2018 Adirondack Loon Recognition Awards!

And to Dr. Nina Schoch recipient of the Adirondack Research Consortium's 2018 Dr. Elizabeth W. Thorndike Adirondack Achievement Award!

Stay Informed!

Thousands of people stay updated throughout the year about our loon conservation, research, and education programs in the Park.

In 2017-2018, we reached:

New York Annual Loon Census

Citizen Science: Third Saturday in July from 8-9am.

- 500+ Observers
- ~200 New York lakes & rivers
- >600 loons

New York Loon Population Status and Trends:
 >> ~2000 adult loons summering in NY

We are most grateful to the many people and organizations who have helped coordinate and participated in the Census, including the Wildlife Conservation Society's former Adirondack Program, Thousand Islands Land Trust, Lake George Association, Cranberry and Upper Saranac Lake Associations, and many hundreds more—Thank You!

Scientific Publications

As part of the New York Mercury Synthesis Project led by Biodiversity Research Institute (BRI) and supported by NYSERDA, we partnered with Yang Yang and Dr. Ruth Yanai of SUNY ESF, Dr. Charley Driscoll of Syracuse University, and Dr. David Evers of BRI to analyze our loon mercury and reproductive success data to produce three articles for a special issue of the journal Ecotoxicology, including:

- Spatial patterns and temporal trends in mercury concentrations in common loons (Gavia immer) from 1998 to 2016 in New York's Adirondack Park: Has this top predator benefitted from mercury emission controls?
- Determining optimal sampling strategies for monitoring mercury and reproductive success in common loons in the Adirondacks of New York.
- The influence of biotic and abiotic factors on banded common loon (Gavia immer) reproductive success in a remote, mountainous region of the northeastern United States.

These articles will be available on our website, www.adkloon.org, following their publication.

YOUR GENEROUS SUPPORT WILL HELP US DO EVEN MORE FOR ADIRONDACK LOONS!

Your tax-deductible gift to the Adirondack Center for Loon Conservation provides financial support for our loon research, conservation, and education programs throughout the Adirondack Park. When you make a donation to the Adirondack Center for Loon Conservation, you make an important impact on loon conservation in the Adirondacks and beyond.

There are many ways you can support our work, including:

- Gifts in honor or in memory of a loved one
- Estate gifts, including:
 - ❖ Stock contributions
 - ❖ Bequests
 - ❖ Life insurance gifts
 - ❖ Retirement account beneficiary
- Your one-time donation
- Becoming a sustaining donor with your recurring monthly contributions
- Corporate matching gift programs
